ODU's State of the Commonwealth Report

Old Dominion University released its 11th annual State of the Commonwealth Report December 16 highlighting where Virginia stands regarding regional progress and the financial circumstances that affect the pocketbooks of all residents.

Produced by the Dragas Center for Economic Analysis and Policy in the Strome College of Business, the 2025 State of the Commonwealth Report shows Virginia, which last year was listed as the best state to conduct business by CNBC, has fallen to 4th place. The report examines why that may be and takes a hard look at the numbers to ascertain what's on the horizon in terms of housing, inflation and employment.

The 2025 report has four chapters: “Virginia’s Economy Slows as Challenges to Growth Rise,” [which examines] Virginia’s economy over the past decade and looks at obstacles to its continued growth; “The State of Virginia’s GO Virginia Regions,” [examines] Virginia’s nine distinct regions, based on economic development and workforce needs based on population, gross domestic product, military, civilian and individual employment and income levels; “Virginia’s Workforce: Understanding Apprenticeships,” looks at apprenticeship programs across the country [and discusses] how such programs could play a part in Virginia’s economy; and “Is It Better to Give Than Receive? Exploring the Distributional Dimension of Virginia’s Budget,” analyzes how revenue is collected and allocated back to localities.

Over the past 20 years, the Strome College of Business’s Dragas Center for Economic Analysis has produced economic research reports for the state’s business and community leaders as they seek data to pinpoint areas in need of attention and to affect positive change. ## A Year in Review: ODU's 2025 Most Memorable Moments

Credit: Kenya Godette

Full story & videos HERE

At ODU, 2025 was a forward-focused year marked by momentum and meaningful impact. From pioneering the use of artificial intelligence to research breakthroughs in cancer to groundbreakings that will enhance the campus experience, explore some of the most compelling moments of 2025.

ODU Becomes First University to Earn NSA Cybersecurity Validation

ODU's School of Cybersecurity is setting a new national benchmark in cybersecurity education by becoming the first institution to receive dual validation for its pioneering cyber and artificial intelligence programs from the National Security Agency (NSA). This groundbreaking achievement advances the University's leadership in preparing students for the rapidly evolving technological landscape where artificial intelligence intersects with cyber defense. ODU is the first institution in the nation to receive both the AICyber and SecureAI recognitions.

The University is one of 10 higher education institutions in the nation and the only one in the Commonwealth of Virginia to have earned all three of NSA's Centers of Academic Excellence (CAE) designations, which include CAE Cyber Defense, CAE Cyber Operations and Cyber Research. This NSA recognition comes as the University celebrates 10 years of cybersecurity education, having launched its first program in 2015 with 11 students. The ODU School of Cybersecurity was officially established in 2020 and has since grown to enroll approximately 1,700 students.

The University has developed partnerships and connections with national agencies and companies, including local military bases, NSA, and Amazon, to create internship, research and certification opportunities for students. This commitment to innovation ensures that students graduating from the ODU School of Cybersecurity are equipped to lead this innovative industry.

@ The Lê Planetarium

Bad Movie Night - The Black Scorpion

January 9, 2026 | 6:30pm
Trivia | 7pm Movie | $5

Cash/Credit/Debit at the door

“Volcanic activity frees giant scorpions from underground caves who then wreak havoc in the rural countryside and eventually threaten Mexico City.”

@ The Gordon

The Baron and Ellin Gordon Art Galleries present Samuel Kahn, Ph.D. + Friends, an in-depth exploration of the art, methods, and inspiration behind the work of Connecticut based self-taught artist Samuel Kahn (1927-2007). Kahn's colorful and playful drawings, sculptures, and plaques tell the story of his connection to the New England landscape, his close study of environments and wildlife, and his use of art as a conduit for feeling and emotion.

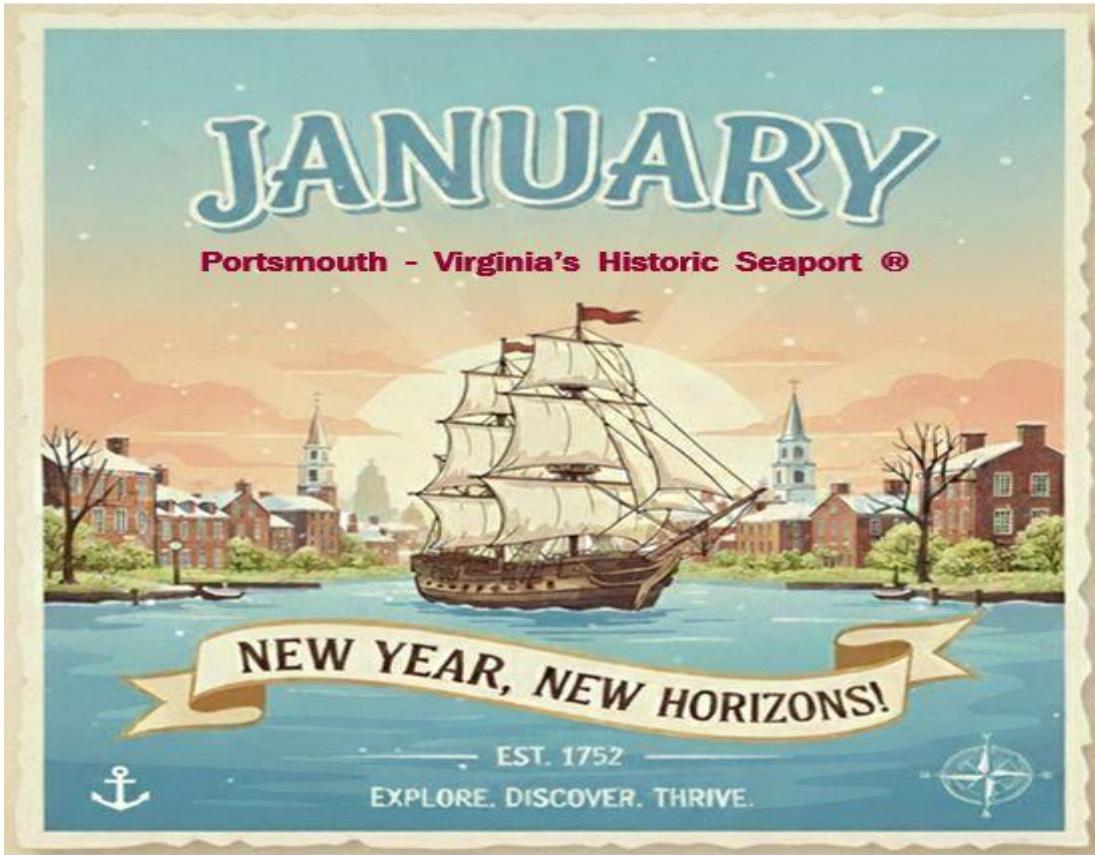

Kahn's works are accompanied by works from the Kahn family, including those of wife Renée Kahn and son Ned Kahn - both accomplished contemporary artists. Works also loaned from the Barry Art Museum at ODU complement Kahn's style rounding out a cast of "friends." reminiscent of the ecological connections Kahn focused on representing in his work. Like the ecology Kahn attempted to represent, this exhibition demonstrates how self-taught art and contemporary art traditions overlap, intermesh, and influence each stylistically, materially, and relationally.

A free, public opening of the exhibition will be held on January 29, 2026 from 6 - 8 pm.
